Mapping SMSC through CARE in the Curriculum – PSHE

Children benefit from spiritual learning PSHE the children are encouraged to explore the values and beliefs of others, understanding human feelings and emotions through imagination and creativity in learning. Moral education is developed in distinguishing the moral and ethical issues, recognising what is right and wrong, which they can apply to their everyday lives. The study of PSHE helps our children to understand the consequences of actions; knowledge and ability to develop personal qualities and social skills so that they can participate and cooperate in resolving conflicts, which helps to deepen an understanding of how communities and societies function. Our PSHE curriculum enables children to explore, understand and respect diversity; deepening their cultural experiences. They are therefore better able to participate in and respond to cultural activities, understanding and appreciating personal influences. SMSC through CARE enables our children to deepen their learning in PSHE in an academic subject supports our children's SMSC development.
